

2022 Spring Convocation Award Winners

LEADERSHIP / SERVICE / GENERAL AWARDS

AGNES SENTELLE BROWN AWARD – Sohan Gade '23

The Agnes Sentelle Brown Award goes to a sophomore, junior or senior, chosen for outstanding promise as indicated by character, personality, and academic ability. This year's recipient of the Agnes Sentelle Brown Award is Sohan Gade.

BEN CALLINDER AWARD – Brandon Reid '22

This year's SGA Ben Callinder award goes to Brandon Reid. Brandon Reid has impacted this community since he first arrived on campus. Through his work with the student government and beyond, Brandon has embodied all of the qualities that the Ben Callinder award requires, as he has worked tirelessly to improve student experiences and unite people from all walks of life.

DAVIDSON BLACK ALUMNI NETWORK AWARD – Kennedy Petties '23, Eboni Thomas '23, Nathanael Bagonza '24, Nasir Jean-Paul '24, Ronasia Duprat '25

This year's recipients of the Davidson Black Alumni Network Award are Ronasia Duprat '25, Nasir Jean-Paul '24, Nathanael Bagonza '24, Eboni Thomas '23, and Kennedy Petties '23. Each has demonstrated academic excellence, outstanding character, devoted service to the Davidson College community, and to their greater community. Their leadership spans various organizations and their impact will be evident for years to come.

GEORGE GLADSTONE MEMORIAL AWARD – Bryce Anthony '23, Kennedy Petties '23

Established in memory of George L Gladstone, Jr., Class of 1960, this award is presented to 2 rising seniors exhibiting high potential for service to mankind as indicated by leadership, service and academic record.

GOODWIN-EXXON AWARDS – Carson Crochet '22, Adeline McDonough '23, Riley

Patton '24

Established by Henry S. Goodwin of the Class of 1930 and funded in part by a foundation, these awards are given annually to a sophomore, junior and senior who exemplify the highest standards of character, good sportsmanship, friendliness and consideration for others.

The sophomore recipient of the 2022 Goodwin Exxon Award is Riley Patton, the junior recipient is Adeline McDonough and our senior recipient is Carson Crochet.

For sharing your talents and gifts so generously with others, and for your commitment to service, we honor you today as the senior recipient of the 2022 Goodwin-Exxon Award.

CHARLES MALONE RICHARDS AWARD – Julia Mahoney '23 and Anna Kate Daunt '23

The Charles Malone Richards Award, established in memory of a longtime Davidson pastor and professor, is presented to a rising senior, ordinarily preparing for the ministry.

Julia Mahoney has served the entire Davidson community from the day she arrived with the beauty of her voice and her dedication to organizing uplifting music for a host of religious gatherings.

Anna Kate Daunt has devoted herself to her Catholic faith and to uplifting all her fellow Davidson students through new initiatives, collaboration, and warm hospitality to all.

For all you have done for the faith community at Davidson, we celebrate you as the 2022 Charles Malone Richards Award recipients.

JAMES BAKER WOODS III AWARD – Claire Hendrix '23

Demonstrating a superior quality of character for her contributions to the Davidson ROTC program and a willingness to volunteer for leadership positions while balancing a rigorous academic schedule. Cadet Hendrix is an integral member of the organization, eager to assist other cadets with topics they struggle with. Her exhibition of great moral character, both in and out of uniform, led to this year's nomination of Cadet Claire Hendrix.

ATHLETIC AWARDS

TOMMY PETERS AWARD – Luka Brajkovic '22

Luka Brajkovic was awarded the Tommy Peters Award, given to the senior male student-athlete in recognition of outstanding dedication and contribution to intercollegiate athletics.

Luka strives to be perfect in everything that he does on the basketball court, and this drive is what makes him a perfect leader for our team. He sets the tone for every practice with the way he approaches the game. His accomplishments, A10 player of the year, all-tournament team, and countless others speak for themselves. However, his personality and care for his teammates is what makes him a great leader for us.

REBECCA E. STIMSON AWARD – Siena Senn '22

Siena is the epitome of a scholar-athlete. She is a two-time A-10 Champion and Davidson's second fastest distance swimmer of all time. She teaches Spanish to third graders at DK8. She serves as a member of Rusk House's service board, of the campus Health Justice Committee's Nutritional Health Board, and of our team's Social Justice Committee. Her research has been published, presented and awarded. She has potential to graduate as valedictorian.

ACADEMIC AWARDS

ARAB STUDIES AWARD – Carson Crochet '22 and Annelise Claire '22

An Arab Studies and German Studies major, Carson Crochet is an accomplished linguist, teacher, and writer. During her time at Davidson, she has spent substantial time also overseas where she has enhanced her language and teaching skills.

An Arab Studies and Digital Studies major, Annelise Claire is a gifted scholar, linguistic, artist, and gem of a human being. She has dedicated her research to giving voice to vulnerable populations around the world.

SANDY BLACK MEMORIAL AWARD – Andrea Liu '23 and Hana Kamran '23

Andrea Liu, a junior Chemistry major from San Diego, California, for excellence in scholarship and deep commitment to service through medicine and research. Her high academic standing is a testament to her keen intellect, indomitable drive, and exceptional work ethic.

Hana Kamran, a junior Biology major from Harrisburg, North Carolina, for excellence in scholarship and deep commitment to service through medicine and research. Her high academic standing is a testament to her keen intellect, indomitable drive, and exceptional work ethic.

FRANZ BOAS AWARD – Kami L. Beardsley '22

Kami's passions coalesce around food insecurity and poverty. Her work demonstrates a nuanced and interdisciplinary understanding of structural equality and inequity. Kami dedicates her time to Gullah communities of Sapelo Island, and Soul Fire Farm, an Afro-Indigenous-centered community farm committed to seeding sovereignty in the food system. Kami thrives in collectivist approaches to social justice as well as living anthropologically.

BREMER GERMAN LANGUAGE AWARD – Danai Psaradelli '22

For her astute, original interpretations of German literature and film, her excellent written and linguistic skills, and her life-long engagement with German culture, this year's Bremer Award goes to Danai Psaradelli

CHINESE STUDIES AWARD – Sean Higgins '22 and Kiran Rajguru '22

The Chinese Studies Award honors a senior who has used advanced study of Chinese language to encounter, understand, and engage Chinese speakers with sincerity and empathy. The department is proud to honor and name Sean Higgins.

For his comprehensive knowledge of the East Asian region and passionate engagement in applying this regional expertise to help others better understand East Asia. The department is proud to honor and name Kiran Rajguru.

COMPUTER SCIENCE AWARD – Carmon J. Proctor '22 , Abigail M. Santiago '22 and Sebastian Y. Charmot '22

For Carmon's excellence in coursework and in tutoring other students as well as for strong research contributions, for Abi's excellent academic performance, her body of research and leadership in campus organizations, and for Sebastian's outstanding performance across a broad range of computer science courses and his research accomplishments in optimization, ranking and reinforcement learning, we award the CS Senior Award.

TOM DAGGY BIOLOGY AWARD – Louisa Bartkovich '22

Louisa's enthusiasm for learning, exploring the secrets of life, and challenging her understanding of biology is limitless. She is a DRI scholar with significant accomplishments in ecological research, an unwavering commitment to environmental and social advocacy, a love of collaborative learning, teaching, and service, and an unapologetic appreciation for plants. She will continue her research on plant ecology at the University of Toronto. We honor Louisa Bartkovich with the Tom Daggy Biology Award.

ALBERTA SMITH DEVANE RELIGIOUS STUDIES AWARD – Jackson Cleveland Pennington '22

Cle has a gift for seeing how a small textual detail might lead to an exploration of larger ideas. By demonstrating how reading a bit of narrative with curiosity draws one to consider what is basic in human life, Cle shows an ambition for the big idea. He is thoughtful – that is, full of thoughts.

W. E. B. DU BOIS EXCELLENCE IN SOCIOLOGY AWARD – Yashita Kandhari '22

The WEB DuBois Award for Excellence goes to the outstanding Senior demonstrating the skills and priorities that are central to Sociology as a field of study and arena of advocacy. For her grasp of theory and methodology and excellent work through her own independent research, we are very pleased to designate this year's award to Yashita Kandhari.

ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES OUTSTANDING SENIOR AWARD – Maeve Arthur '22 and Chris Chao '22

Maeve is a focused, strategic thinker, DRI fellowship recipient, skilled entomologist, co-leader of SIAD, and enthusiastic promoter of the outdoors with a passion for environmental justice. Chris has impressed us with his exceptional dedication to and engagement with the full breadth of environmental studies. His capstone project on the Treasure Trees of Davidson is a superb model of interdisciplinarity.

MONDE FRANCOPHONE AWARD (FRENCH & FRANCOPHONE STUDIES) PRIZE – Nadia Baye '22 and Ashley Henneberger '22

For her outstanding academic performance in all her classes, for working on a fascinating thesis and being a fantastic AT and writing tutor for the department. Nadia's talent, performance and enthusiasm for French & Francophone Studies is contagious and she is an example for all her peers. Félicitations, Nadia!

For her outstanding academic performance in all her classes, for working on a fascinating thesis and being a fantastic AT. Ashley's calm drive, work ethic and talent in French & Francophone Studies make her an exemplary student. Félicitations, Ashley!

WILLIAM B. HIGHT, JR. EDUCATIONAL STUDIES AWARD – Anna Louise Lewis '22

Established by colleagues, alumni, and friends in the memory of William B. Hight, founder and longtime chair of the Educational Studies Department, this award recognizes Anna today for embodying the highest intellectual and personal qualities of an educator and Davidson graduate. After transferring to Davidson, Anna pursued her passion for education, not only excelling as an Education and Disability Studies major, but also stepping up throughout the pandemic to support children and families as a substitute teacher, literacy tutor, and EC volunteer.

MUNDO HISPÁNICO (THE HISPANIC STUDIES) AWARD – Alyssa Tirrell '22

The Mundo Hispánico award goes to the student who best exemplifies excellence in the study of the Spanish language and Hispanic cultures. This year's recipient, Alyssa Tirrell, brings a scholar's mind to bear on the complex ways the art, philosophy and literature of Latin America and Spain illuminate each other and offer a rich accounting of the transatlantic world.

DOUGLAS HOUCHENS STUDIO ART AWARD – Laura Bullock '23

This is awarded for your determined development of an artistic practice that visualizes the enigmatic qualities of daily life. Your paintings and drawings offer us the opportunity to better appreciate the world around us.

DAVID HALBERT HOWARD, JR. CHEMISTRY AWARD – Bethany Phillips '23

Bethany is an exceptional student who has rapidly progressed through the chemistry curriculum. Bethany shows curiosity across all the subfield of chemistry. She poses challenging questions in class and enjoys designing experiments and approaches to determine the solution.

LUCILE AND MAX JACKSON AWARD IN ART HISTORY – Yunyue (Sarah) Zhang '23

For your intellectual curiosity, academic rigor, and eloquent and thoughtful analyses in your work inside the classroom, as well as your involvement and contributions to the art department outside the classroom, please accept the Lucile and Max Jackson Award in Art History that recognizes the junior major who has made the most progress in the past year.

THE KEISER PRIZE IN ENGLISH FOR CLASSICAL PERFORMANCE – James Shakow '22

Whatever he touches shines with the Shakow effect. He can play Isaac Jaggard in The Book of Will or Shakespeare's corrupt deputy, Angelo. He can direct Albee's Zoo Story or Treadwell's Machinal. On or behind the stage, from the director's chair, inside the editing room, behind the camera—but, mostly, in the classroom—sparks fly! It's the Shakow effect.

LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES PRIZE – Eliza Jane Patterson '22

In addition to consistent academic excellence, Eliza has shown keen insight, kindness and generosity in her scholarly work. She has worked to improve governance globally by helping to launch the World Bank's Global Good Governance Survey and contributing to the Stanford Governance Project. Locally, she promotes justice through her work with the Charlotte Center for Legal Advocacy's Immigrant Justice Project.

HENRY T. LILLY AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN ENGLISH – Emma Shealy '22

For your richly syncretic work, for your infusions of welcome humor into your writing, for your ability to disrupt binary thinking, for your critical inquiry into what it means to speak in "two accents," and for all your kindness and intellectual generosity, Emma Shealy, you are the deserving recipient of the 2022 Lilly Award from the department of English.

ALAIN LOCKE/ANNA JULIA COOPER AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN AFRICANA STUDIES – Chineme Amechi '22

This award commemorates the distinguished lives and achievements of two outstanding figures whose works and legacies significantly impacted future discourses on race, gender, class, and sexuality in Africana Studies. This award is bestowed upon Chineme Amechi who best exhibits the qualities of Africana Studies' academic excellence. For all of this and so much more, the Alain LeRoy Locke and Anna Julia Cooper Award goes to Chineme Amechi.

WILLIAM G. MCGAVOCK MATHEMATICS AWARD – Sebastian Y. Charmot '22 and Dominic C. Flocco '22

For Dominic's deep love of mathematics, gentle leadership while working with others, and depth of analysis in research problems, and for Sebastian's contributions to several research problems, steadfast commitment to positive change through mathematics, and curiosity and excellence in a wide range of coursework we award both students the William G. McGavock Award.

SALLY G. MCMILLEN GENDER & SEXUALITY STUDIES PRIZE – Isabel Padalecki '22

Their brilliant thesis is titled "Growing Up and Into Excess: A Historical and Auto-Ethnographic Investigation into Fat and Queer Embodiment Across Space, Time, and Identity". Isabel's insight, intellectual risk-taking, and sheer hard work allowed them to realize the ambitions of this highly original project—a shining example of the extraordinary work that interdisciplinary academic inquiry can produce.

A.K. PHIFER AWARD IN ECONOMICS – Molly Firr '23, Leo (Chenruizhe) Hu'23, and Helena Von Leupoldt '23

This year's winners have displayed exceptional analytical skills and the ability to ask insightful research questions. Most importantly, these recipients have shown profound appreciation for the way that the study of economics can improve our understanding of the world.

W. KENDRICK PRITCHETT AWARD IN CLASSICS – Kelly Garrett '22 and Emmie Lo '22

Kelly Garrett, Dobson-Neely scholar, proven teacher of Latin, whose rapacious passion for Classics leverages inspiration and grit to produce rigorous, sophisticated research – all with an intellect uncompromising yet profoundly generous.

Emmie Lo reads ancient languages with mellifluous ease, and peerless are her determination, open heart, sense of self, and insightful wit. But her inspired creativity and joy of intellect? Divine!

PHYSICS AWARD – Pranjal Singh '22

This year's recipient excelled in astrophysics, nuclear physics, and quantum-mechanics research, as well as being a sought-after advisee. Like a pendulum, the harder she was pushed, the faster she moved. For her research, her service to the department through teaching, her numerous presentations, and her excellence in the study of physics, the 2022 Physics Award is presented to Pranjal Singh.

J. HARRIS PROCTOR AWARD IN POLITICAL SCIENCE– Jamie Rose Montagne '22 and Nathan Jordan '22

Established in 1993, this award honors Professor Emeritus J. Harris Proctor, former chair of the Political Science Department. It is awarded annually to outstanding senior political science majors. The Political Science Department is pleased to name Jamie Rose Montagne and Nathan Jordan as winners of this year's J. Harris Proctor Award.

RICHARD ROSS MEMORIAL MUSIC AWARD – Roman Cole Fenner '22

The Richard Ross Memorial Music Award, presented to a senior music major, honors Richard Ross, who was in his lifetime an internationally celebrated organ recitalist, a gifted teacher, and a dedicated Presbyterian Church musician. This year's recipient is Roman Fenner. A talented, accomplished performer, and strong leader, Roman's two majors, music and biology, reflects his passions, music and medicine.

RAWLEY P. TURNER DRAMA AWARD – Caroline Gschwind '22, Meredith Iodice '23 and Breanna Suarez '25

The three-person cast of The Drowning Girls, along with their director, created a seamless, beautifully executed ensemble performance. Balancing each other playfully and selflessly, each performer was equally responsible for the play's power. The Theatre Department is proud to honor their work.

Madeline (Maddy) Wolfenbarger '22

Maddy gave a stunning and mesmerizing performance in The Addams Family. Her triple-threat acting brought deadpan Morticia to life. The Theatre Department enthusiastically awards the Rawley P. Turner Acting award to Maddy Wolfenbarger.

PORTER VINSON CHEMISTRY AWARD – Madeline J. Fitzgerald '24

Madeline is an extraordinary student. In the classroom, Madeline is particularly skilled in drawing connections from course concepts to material she has learned in other classes. She can readily apply foundation principles to solve new problems. Madeline has performed research in the Chemistry Department and plans to continue that research in the upcoming summer.

DANIEL BLAIN WOODS AWARD – Ella Katherine Stewart '23, Allison Suzanne Dil '23, and Tomás Simon Quintero '23

Ella Katherine Stewart, a junior Biology major from Mars, Pennsylvania; Allison Suzanne Dil, a junior Chemistry major from Tampa, Florida; and Tomás Simon Quintero, a junior Biology major from Baltimore, Maryland are this year's co-recipients in recognition of their outstanding academic achievement, profound commitment to the well-being of others, and exemplary leadership.

WILLIAM GATEWOOD WORKMAN PSYCHOLOGY AWARD – Serena Hu '22 and Helen Zhang '22

Annually the Department bestows this award as its highest honor, commemorating the standards of excellence demonstrated by Dr. Workman in his professional attainments in Teaching, Research, and Service. This year's award goes to Serena Hu and Helen Zhang.

Both students are superb scholars who have conducted research in multiple areas of psychology. Where they differ is in their outstanding service accomplishments. Helen served as Psi Chi president and led an initiative to support morale over the stressful finals period. Serena published a novel in China that shares evidence-based information about mental health with a general audience.

2022 ODK TEACHING AWARD – Dr. C. Shaw Smith

With over 35 years of teaching, mentoring, inspiring, and challenging students, Dr. C. Shaw Smith exemplifies leadership, honor, and integrity. Dr. C. Shaw Smith's passion and care result in students achieving the purpose of Davidson College, developing humane instincts, and disciplined and creative minds for lives of leadership and service.

2022 ODK STAFF AWARD – Ms. Sally Fredricks

Ms. Fredricks exemplifies the care and support necessary for student success. She greatly impacts Davidson through her genuine passion for students, staff, faculty, and all whom she encounters in the Chaplains Office and College Union. She is an important presence in the Davidson community as she purposefully engages, encourages, and uplifts others.

2022 ODK COMMUNITY MEMBER AWARD – Dr. Robert Lutz

Dr. Lutz serves as the essential influencer in Davidson College's ability to navigate the impacts of COVID-19. He continues to work with students, faculty, staff, and the community remains safe during the pandemic, which remains no easy task. ODK recognizes Dr. Lutz's decision to rise to the needs of the college and values his impact on the community.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

2022 FACULTY AWARD – Brenda Flanagan

As the Edward Armfield Sr. professor of English, SGA would like to honor Dr. Flanagan's contributions to both the Africana and English departments. Her writing and literature courses have connected with students across campus for more than 15 years.

2022 PRE-MAJOR FACULTY ADVISING AWARD –Melissa González

The SGA would like to present the SGA Holistic Advising Award to Dr. Melissa Gonzalez. Melissa has shown immense passion in the sustained development of her advisees. Advisees have spoken from personal experience how she has aided in their personal growth and taken action to help build routines for their mental health and well being. She is extremely welcoming and encourages students to grow out of their comfort zones, build relationships on campus and pursue impactful experiences. She continues her efforts beyond advising as a professor and a major voice of advocacy on campus for the LGBTQIA+ community and works hard to ensure Davidson fosters a safe space for all students.

Additional Honors and Award Winners Spring 2022

ADDITIONAL AWARDS FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

THE WILMER HAYDEN WELSH PRIZE IN COMPOSITION – Sarah Marie Suttner '22

The Wilmer Hayden Welsh Prize in Composition, established in honor of a longtime composer and Professor of Music at Davidson (1963-1991), recognizes the best original music composition by a Davidson student in the previous calendar year. This year's award goes to Sarah Suttner for her compelling, soulful, and poignantly bittersweet song, "Happy Endings."

THE RUFUS HALLMARK WRITING AWARD – Maria Mavrodieva '21

The Rufus Hallmark Writing Award, named after the distinguished musicologist Rufus Hallmark, Davidson Class of 1965, recognizes the best written or multi-media presentation on a musical topic created in the previous year. This year's award goes to a beautifully annotated and researched video essay from MUS 228 (Film Music) by Maria Mavrodieva titled "Modulating Time Using Music: An Analysis of Film Music from Inception."

STEINWAY PIANO GALLERY-CHARLOTTE AWARD – Leonardo Daniel Tamburro '22

The Steinway Award recognizes outstanding pianistic ability, musicianship, and artistic and academic scholarship. This year's award goes to Leo Tamburro. A brilliant pianist equally at home in both the virtuosic and the profound, Leo's highlights at Davidson include soloist with the DCSO in Saint Saëns' Concerto No. 2 and an upcoming recital juxtaposing selections from Bach's Art of the Fugue with arrangements of Bach by other composers.

ADDITIONAL AWARD FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY

OUTSTANDING JUNIOR SOCIOLOGY STUDENT OF THE YEAR – Georgia Morris '23

The Outstanding Junior Sociology Student of the Year is presented to a Junior Sociology major demonstrating a high degree of intellectual maturity and a substantial grasp of sociological concepts and empirical research methods. This year the Sociology department is very pleased to provide the award to: Georgia Morris

ADDITIONAL AWARD FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF NEUROSCIENCE

DR. CHARLES RICHARDSON "BUDDY" MARTIN, JR. OUTSTANDING UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH AWARD IN NEUROSCIENCE - Paul Gomez '22

This award recognizes students who share in the love of study and research in the neurosciences demonstrated by Dr. Buddy Martin, Class of 1988, whose memory we honor with this award. This year's award goes to Paul Gomez for superlative research in neuroscience.
